“Running a landscape design and construction business requires some unique skills. While the design aspect requires creativity and imagination, the construction side can be physically very demanding and there are also environmental considerations.”

Jan Prescott - Director

The long hours combined with the physical demands of running a landscape gardening business probably explains why so many landscapers fail to give accounting and tax issues the attention they deserve. While GST, BAS and tax payments often represent some of the largest financial obligations for a landscaping business, most tradespeople fail to manage their tax affairs. As a consequence, we find many landscape gardeners pay too much tax and are exposed to fines and penalties as a result of non-compliance.

Here at Voltage Accounting we understand the challenges and operations of a landscape design and construction business. Apart from the usual small business compliance issues of GST, BAS, PAYG and Superannuation, we assist clients with managing their cash flow and help them select the right software to prepare quotes, invoices and manage their payroll and apprentices. Too many tradesmen use the wrong accounting software which ends up costing them more in accounting fees while our client brief is to help you cut the cost of compliance.

We believe marketing can be the difference between success and failure for a landscape gardener and it all starts with your branding (business name, logo development and slogan). Through our affiliate partners we can help you develop your website and corporate brochure plus harness the power of social media to win more referrals.
